1. Phases of dissemination

The dissemination activities are structured in three distinct phases, according to the project's level of advancement. Each phase is operated through its own specific channels and includes different kinds of activities, specifically tailored to reach the objective, as detailed below.

Phase I – Awareness building (approximately M1-25)

In the first period of the project, as the dissemination materials were not yet or limited available, dissemination involved internal and external communication to inform IWT e&t institutions (in the network of PAN-European umbrella organisation EDINNA), their lectures and students, the industry, stakeholders and beyond about the project's aims and objectives. We exchanged best practices and ideas about previous experiences, engaged the greatest possible number of stakeholders in the project by building a stakeholders network in order to optimise the development of resources and ensure the highest quality of results. In parallel, partners were working on the preparation of the website and started planning the dissemination activities. The website and the social media were useful tools for awareness building at this phase. The project did benefit from the experience accumulated by partners in similar activities or projects.

In this phase I the leader of WP 5 inspired and motivated all consortium partners to start to undertake dissemination activities at national and regional level. Amongst other activities partners were encouraged to add COMPETING project information to the website of their own organisation, but also relevant events were mapped and partners were asked to give presentations about COMPETING at various relevant events. Also many partners decided to share updates via social media and to share and like updates from the project's social media accounts. This resulted in an active online presence.

Phase 2 – Awareness building and dissemination of the results (approximately M25-37)

When the contents production of WP3, and WP4 started to appear, our objective in this phase was to motivate more target audiences including stakeholders to join the network and to contribute to the project development using their contacts and network capacity and to disseminate the projects' aims and results to the widest possible spectrum of IWT professionals. For this we used the network of consortium members and continued to motivate all partners to disseminate the outcomes and aims of the project.

In this phase we started to disseminate the European Training Record Book (ETRB) on Operational and Management level. We shared a press release about the ETRB and organised various appointments with the press and trade magazines. Consortium partners were asked to translate the press release into their national language and to contact press at national and regional level. A Dutch radio programme gave attention to our project as well as various trade magazines. COMPETING attend various congresses and event at this stage, like the IVR-congress in Ghent, the EDINNA general assembly meeting, meetings of ITB and ETF and the Day of the maritime teacher. In the Fall of 2020 and on 24 February 2021 COMPETING gave two presentation to a delegation of captains from Ukraine, to explain the EU directive and its consequences and how Ukraine could follow the steps taken in the EU. These are only some examples. Please consult the next paragraph for an complete overview of all dissemination activities.

Phase 3 – Dissemination of the results (approximately M37-42 + extra dissemination activities in the Fall of 2022)

In this phase our objective was to inform and motivate the widest possible range of IWT professionals, the industry, general public especially young people to exploit and make use of the produced materials provided by the website. To this end, dissemination activities included continuous interaction with target groups, partners, policy makers and key stakeholders, organisation of small scale focused activities like workshops at various levels and presentation of the project to large-scale dissemination events with a wider scope. Therefore we organised a wide-spread open to all online seminar at 7 April (a second one is scheduled on 6 October 2022) and the End-conference of the project on 14 June 2022. We also gave a final presentation about COMPETING at the general assembly meeting in Varna, Bulgaria and another train-the-trainer event. Next to organising events WP 5 focused intensely on the quality of the look and feel and language of the course manuals. WP 5 organised a professional proofread and lay-out of the course manuals, as well as the ETRB in an earlier stage. In the Autumn of 2022 the ETRB on OL/ML will also be issued in the French language (by initiative of ITB). A press release was shared about the end-conference and rounding off of the project. This resulted in three appearances in the media. Another press release about the availability of the course manuals and the QA/QC system will be shared by the end of September 2022. These are only some examples. Please consult the next paragraph for an complete overview.

3.COMPETING dissemination activities executed by partners

As from the start of the project all COMPETING partners were well aware of their responsibility in disseminating the project's outcomes. We were able to make good use of the broad network of all partners in disseminating the results. The project used an Excel template 'Recording dissemination activities' so that partners could keep track of their activities.

Please find the overviews of all activities in Annex I of this document.
